

Tulsi Attains International Recognition

"When I was first introduced to the sacred Tulsi, my first reaction, as a Western scientist, was disbelief. This herb sounds too good to be true. There seemed to be far more wide-ranging health benefits attributed to this plant than could be possible for a single agent. Yet, I realized that there must be a compelling reason why Tulsi has, for thousands of years, remained one of the most cherished of India's sacred healing plants.

Research offers impressive evidence that Tulsi's vitality-enhancing properties, which support and enhance the body's natural capacity to maintain a state of well-being, likely account for much of the impressively wide range of Tulsi's traditional health promoting uses.

The industrialized West has, until very recently, tended to discard traditional nature-based, dietary and lifestyle approaches in favor of reliance on isolated compounds or synthetic drugs. However, the Western medical system has not been able to cope with the growing array of chronic degenerative environmental, lifestyle and stress-related physical and mental disorders that plague modern society.

Tulsi is certain to emerge in the near future as a forerunner in the prevention and treatment of these pervasive modern illnesses."

Stress Relieving & Delicious

Rich in Natural Antioxidants

Take a Sip of Ancient Wisdom!

Tulsi - Ancient wisdom for today's world.

We are honored and privileged to be the first company to bring the Sacred Tulsi to the world market as a delicious herbal tea, for the health and well-being of all. Tulsi improves our ability to manage the constant attacks of bacteria, viruses, allergens, infections, pollution, pressure etc. all of which are different kinds of stress on our bodies and minds.

Tulsi is a powerful adaptogen* and is rich in antioxidants. It is also rich in phytonutrients, which build healthy cells and strengthen the immune system. By improving digestion, Tulsi contributes to weight management. Tulsi purifies the lungs and is anti-asthmatic.

*An Adaptogen/Anti-stress agent

Improves the fighting capacity (adaptability) of the body against stress (physical, chemical, environmental, mental and emotional). If stress becomes prolonged and the organism cannot cope with it, i.e. cannot adapt, stress will result in disease. Depending upon the inherent strengths and weaknesses of the individual, the same stress can cause: allergies, arterial hypertension, arthritis, bronchial asthma, bronchitis, cancer, chronic fatigue syndrome, colitis, coronary heart disease including myocardial infarction, diabetes mellitus, gastrointestinal ulcers, etc. Different kinds of stress, for example, grief and anxiety (emotional stress), pollution and other toxins (environmental stress), pressure and tension (mental stress), poor diet and fatigue (physical stress) etc. will cause different diseases in different individuals. Thus, any plant that improves the adaptive processes of the body in fighting against stress is termed as an adaptogen (adaptogenic agent, anti-stress agent).

Antioxidants slow down the process of excess oxidation and protect cells from the damage caused by free radicals. When cells are attacked by free radicals, excess oxidation occurs which damage and destroy cells. Antioxidants stop this process. The cellular damage caused by free radicals can be responsible for causing and/or accelerating many diseases. Tulsi is rich in anti-oxidants and is recommended to guard against free radicals and protect from damaging excess oxidation.
